NEW ENGLAND NEWS IN TABLOID FORM

News of General Interest
From the Six States

Athletic burglars climbed up an iron ladder of the Neapolitan Ice Cream Company on Lansdowne street, Cambridge, Mass., hatched the dial of the safe and escaped with more than $1000 tied up in small bags.

Depressed through his failure to pass an English examination, Earl Wood, 17-year-old Whitman, Mass., high school senior, committed suicide by shooting himself through the heart in a gravel pit on the outskirts of Boston.

Eighteen construction jobs for the city of Boston, including sewer and street work, were struck by order of the United Building Trades Council, for alleged continued employment of non-union labor and failure to pay the union rate of wages and to live up to union requirements.

Farming in New England today offers greater promise than anywhere else in the country—indeed, in the entire world, says Dr. Arthur W. Gilbert, Massachusetts commissioner of agriculture. Gilbert returned recently from a trip to Rome where he was chairman of the United States delegation to the biennial meeting of the Institute of Agriculture.

With the reunion in New London, Conn., of the class of 1919 of Connecticut College for Women, the first class to graduate, it became known that out of the 68 graduates 39 are married. There are 18 babies. In the class graduating this year more than 30 of the 92 students have announced their engagements.

Beating his 82-year-old mother was the offense for which Edward Kirk was found guilty in municipal court, Boston. He was sentenced to serve one year. He left with these words of Judge Creed's ringing in his ears: "You are the most contemptible cur that ever came before me in this court. I wish I could give you a more severe sentence, but I am limited to one year."

Briggs G. Blake, who lives on the Orling road, Williamstown, Mass., discovered in the nursery near his farm a large turtle with the inscription "B. G. B. 1874" on its back. He recalled that when a young man he had carved his initials on the years ago, but the turtle has now returned. The same turtle was caught 18 years ago by T. Gardner, who also carved his initials on its back.

The only New England colleges to be mentioned as a "distinguished college" and to be so designated during the year 1924, according to an experiment which the state has made through the annual inspection of military schools throughout the United States are the University of Vermont and the University of Vermont.

Theodore Collier, who holds the chair of history and international relations at Brown University, Providence, will lecture on history in the Constantinople Women's College, according to announcement made by the Constantinople Women's College. He is to be the next academic year, and in addition to his teaching will study at the same time some of the major problems confronting the near east.

The first woman pastor named for a Methodist church in Western Massachusetts, the Rev. Lydia Moschel, who has accepted a call to the Methodist church at Stamford, Vt. She has been serving as pastor in the various parishes of the Troy conference for some time past. Mrs. Moschel's home is in Pawtucket, Vt. She stated the place left vacant by the recent resignation of the Rev. Albert Place at Stamford.

The Middlesex, Mass., grand jury in special session brought two indictments, one for murder and the other for assault with intent to murder against John J. King, Jr., Dr. Albert, Mass., athlete, who shot and killed the place left vacant by the recent resignation of the Rev. Albert Place at Stamford.

Workers digging sand for the public highways at the pit on the old Harrison farm in North Foxboro, Mass., exhumed a lot of bones 12 feet below the surface. These were at first thought to have been the remains of a horse, but the teeth were shown to be ex-humable teeth, and both claim that such grinders were never known by an equine. The teeth are 1 1/2 inches square and three to four inches long. The fact of their burial so far below the surface leads many to think they belonged to some prehistoric man brought in the ice flow of the glacial period.

The interfraternity council of Middlebury, Vt., College, made up of two representatives from each fraternity, has abolished the rushing system which has been in use during the last few years and instituted a new set of rushing regulations. Instead of holding the rushing season during the early part of December, it will be held from Oct. 23 to 28, as it is generally felt that a certain amount of rushing is necessary to be carried on during the fall when the season is so late and by moving the dates forward this objectionable feature can be eliminated.

Alumni Banquet Largely Attended.

OLD AND YOUNGER GRADUATES RENEW THEIR MEMORIES.

Year by year the alumni banquet seems to increase in interest and draw out a larger number of the local alumni and others not now residents here who come to the banquet to renew their memories of the old school days.

The banquet of this year, which was held Friday evening, was one of the most largely attended yet, and as a social affair and an impetus-giver to the school it was certainly highly successful.

The banquet was served by Paris Grand in the grand dining room, and 234 alumni and guests were seated at the tables. The roll call which was a part of the business meeting showed that nearly all classes were represented, twenty-four old Oxford Normal Institute students and two of the class of 1899, the first to have a formal graduation, down through to the thirty-two members of the class of 1924, who all were present as guests of honor.

Dunham's Orchestra played during the banquet, as well as for the dancing, later in the evening. The decorations of the dining room were in the 1924 class colors of green and gold, and were very attractive and effective.

Roast chicken and the "fixings," mashed potatoes, cold ham, salad, pastry, ice cream and cake, with the accessories, constituted the menu, well cooked and well served.

President Harold C. Fletcher of the Alumni Association called the business meeting to order while the people were still seated at the tables. The reading of the records and the reports showed that the financial transactions of the association had involved the handling of some over $500 during the year, and that there is now on hand $138.58.

Following the business there was a short program of speaking, those who responded to the call of President Fletcher being Superintendent Alden B. Hayes, Alton G. Wheeler, Mrs. Alice Wise, Roy H. Porter of Portland, Pa., Harold I. Merrill of Tufts Divinity School, Frank F. McGinley, who had just graduated from Bates College in the class of 1924, and Homer Aldrich of the high school class of 1924.

An adjournment was then made to the upper hall, where a short musical program included a violin solo by Dorothy Dean, a piano solo by Miss Maxine Bennett, a vocal solo by G. A. Coitling, and a piano duet by Miss Edith Lowell and Miss Laura Brooks. The rest of the evening was spent socially and in dancing.

Among those from out of town who were present for the banquet were Mrs. Clara Whitte of Portland, Frank J. Conant of Lewiston, Roy H. Porter of Portland, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Ernest M. Sweet of Prince Bay, N. Y., Merrill of Tufts Divinity School, Frank F. McGinley, who had just graduated from Bates College in the class of 1924, and Homer Aldrich of the high school class of 1924.

The bride was given away by her father, Mr. J. E. Bates, and the groom, Mr. J. E. Bates, was escorted by his best man, Mr. J. E. Bates. The bride wore a white gown with a train, and the groom wore a tuxedo. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. A. Markley of Turner.

The bride and groom were accompanied by their parents and other relatives. The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bates. The bride and groom were accompanied by their parents and other relatives.

Try Dr. Donnell's Indian Gall Stone Solvent First. Proved Good Advice.

Lewiston, Maine.

Just a few lines to let you know that Dr. Donnell's Indian Gall Stone Solvent did for me. My family doctor told me the only way that my gall stones could be removed was by an operation. On advice of one of my friends that had taken Dr. Donnell's Indian Gall Stone Solvent, I had the doctor come to my house and after taking his Gall Stone Solvent for nine days, I passed six stones the size of a lima bean, and took them down to my family doctor and showed him the results of Dr. Donnell's Indian Gall Stone Solvent.

Good Investments.—
"Put money in thy purse," was one of the injunctions of old times. "Put money in the bank," is a later-day slogan. But we say, first and foremost, above purse or bank, "Put money in yourself." This is the best investment, provided you use judgment in the money-spending.

Invest money in good food, put in this all you can afford. First a nutritious and easily digested diet, which shall include enough variety to stimulate appetite, and a great plenty of fruits and vegetables in season. Also, be sure you provide for every meal things that will taste good. "Food that is refilled is half digested," was one of the sayings of the Father of Medicine, and the statement was later corroborated by Pawlow's discovery of "Appetite." That "vicious diet makes monstrous minds" is preached to-day by our foremost dietitians. To put thought and money into right diet is one of the best ways to use both.

Put money into fresh air. Strangers as it may seem, it is easier to secure good air for our rooms, than good diet for our bodies. This, first, because diet has to be adapted more or less to each individual; and second, because there are on the market many devices which are of immense help in automating the regulating the ventilation, temperature, and moisture of the air in our dwellings. It is not right for any one to live or work in a room in which, entering from out of doors, the air is found to be perceptibly different in sweetness.

The cost of investing in exercise may be merely an outlay of time. Walking in the open air, systematically, for a given time each day, whether it rains or shines, is excellent exercise, and costs nothing but the time you spend at it. It may even mean a saving of calories. But do not let walking be your sole exercise in the fresh air. G. T. Tinsley is more delighted and joy-bringing, if you have the taste and the opportunity for it. Neither may you ignore the outdoor games, where together with fresh air, exercise, and stimulus to respiration are in circulation, you have over and above all these the joys of social intercourse, the rejuvenation of real play. To keep the play spirit alive, to unbind and liberate up, will make you 50 per cent more valuable in your work.

All these are general directions as to investment of time and capital. Let us come to the specific one for this season—investment in a summer vacation. It is a good sign to see vacation clubs for savings opened at the banks, it means vacation insurance for the wage-earner. It is bad to find some business houses giving the "split vacation," of a week at a time, thus making impossible the continued relaxation of even the patrician fortnight in the long year of work. Worst of all it is to find men and women in business saying they are not able to take a vacation, and that it is just as good to go on week-end trips. This is pure sophistry. It pays to drop your work completely, whether in school or home, office or shop. It pays to get away from your daily associates, even the members of your family. It pays to get away from your customary environment, and to see what new ideas will be born in you that you did not know was in you. It pays to drop from your mind all thought of your work, to fill it with something else, and become a new person.

Let your vacation this year be the best you ever had. Let it be unique. Plan to live out of doors, to fare delectably, to be carefree and at ease, to be idle and without responsibility, to do things you never did before in the way of sports of hiking, swimming, mountain-climbing, playing at games, being your natural self while surrounded by nature. So may you invest in life insurance, health insurance, increased earnings in insurance, and joy insurance for the year to come.

A Bungalow Announcement Party.
(By Vera Clark)

Everybody attended Betty Lee's parties. They were simple, and yet they were original, and were very enjoyable. Good things to eat. So when invitations arrived for a bungalow party, written on brown cards in red ink, with little red bungalows painted in the corners, her friends rejoiced. And went on merrily. As soon as the guests were all present, Betty passed about tiny sample palm-cakes, which the men matched up for partners, then she passed each couple a card table equipped with drawing paper, rulers, pencils, and erasers.

"You are to draw a plan for a bungalow," she announced. "Make it just exactly the way you want it when you really do build yours—with all the little things you've always wanted and never had. Describe the furnishings if you like. But before many minutes, shouts of laughter were coming from all parts of the room, mingled with excited discussions.

"Here's where we'll have the stove." "Stove there! That's too far from the window—how do you think I can see whether my plan is burning in the oven if it's that dark?"

On "Now, that will make a fine sewing-room—cutting table there—"

"Here, you can't have that for a sewing-room; I want a den."

So interested were they that when Betty called, "Time's up!" there was a perfect chorus of requests for "more time; we've only just begun!"

While she collected plans, the guests drew lots for judges, who after great deliberation and laughter awarded it, the winning couple a jewel case for the girl in the form of a quaint Dutch china house in brown, with a removable roof; for the man, a little metal bungalow low paper-weight.

Then Betty ushered her guests to the dining room, where the first glimpse of the table brought a little chorus: "Betty! How lovely!"

Bed-shaded brown candles cast a ruddy glow over a table with brown linen doilies, red houses applied in the corners, and napkins of fringed red crepe. In the center, on a bed of green, stood a brown pasteboard bungalow, roofed with red chimney and wide-plazas, which were heaped with brown-wrapped bundles connected by red ribbons to place cards, out in the shape of tiny brown houses, and bearing names and surnames in red ink.

Saucy red tomatoes stuffed with chicken and celery salad, roasted lettuce, individual plates; at each place stood a slender glass of raspberry shrub, with nut bread sandwiches, filled with currant jelly and cottage cheese. Chocolate ice cream, topped off with macaroon chocolate and champagne, with a little red candles, completed the simple menu.

Later each guest pulled his favor from the piazza of the bungalow, opened and read aloud the verse upon his place card. There was for the girl who liked old-fashioned but had to have a new sewing machine with the verse:

"We hope this sewing machine bewitches A clothes-loving girl like cutting stitches. A lawn mower went to the man who would not keep his lawn out without constant reminder from his wife, when your grass grows so long that you can't see the door."

Pere took make use of our little lawn mower."

A Victoria for the man whose over-enthusiasm played their late at night, and a stream of laughter; an alarm clock for the sleepyhead, a post-man's whistle for the girl who had a huge correspondence, a motor car for the speeder.

Betty's favor was the last opened. A diamond ring, which was slipped on her finger by the young architect who sat by her side.

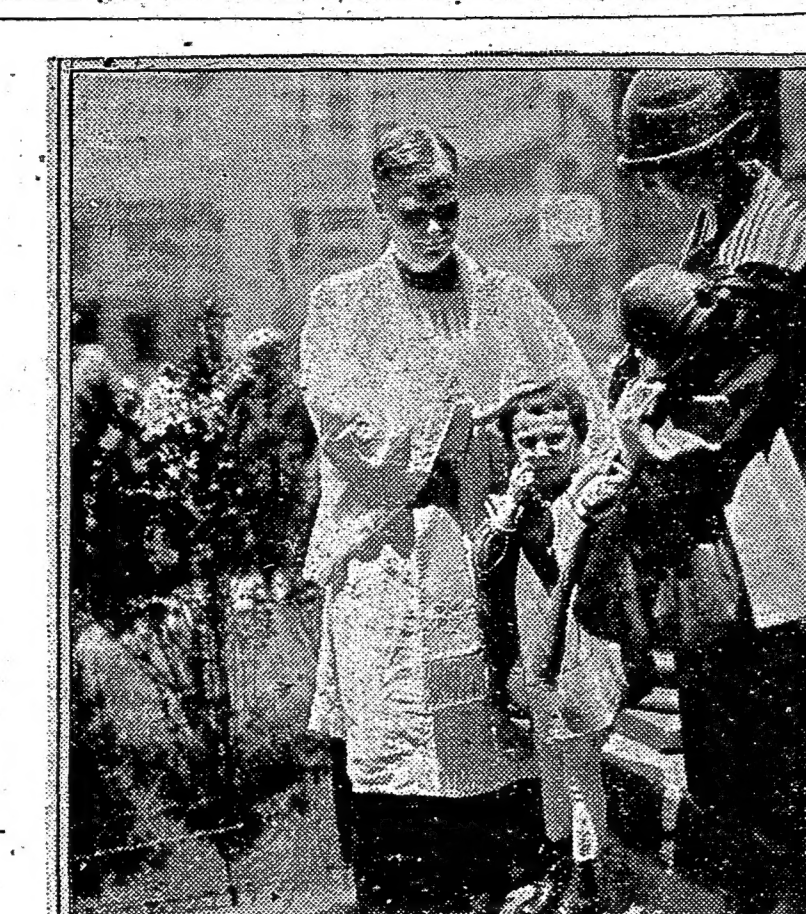

"Yes," explained the girl, "we had so much fun planning our own bungalow that we thought we'd pass it along to you."

To take potatoes quickly boil them in salted water for 10 minutes, then put them in the oven. The boiling water will heat them through so that they cook in a short time.

Lightning Bore Iron

During an electrical storm in Ohio an official of a lumber company sitting in his office was startled by a loud report like the discharge of a gun, and, looking up at the ceiling, noticed a blaze. On examination he found that there was a hole large enough to insert his little finger in the iron gas pipe. The lightning had come in over the electric wires, jumped off to the gas pipe, which they crossed at right angles, bored through the iron and ignited the escaping gas.

The Last Straw

Mr. Bushman was exasperated with the telephone. Ten times that morning he had tried to get a number and each time something had prevented him from speaking. At last he got through. "Hello," he said. "Is Mr. X. there?" "Yes," replied a voice. "Do you want to speak to him?" That was the last straw. Back went the reply in icy tones: "Oh, no! I merely rang him up to hand him a cigarette."

Home of the Brave

"The rapidly increasing divorce rate," remarked the newscaster, "proves that America is fast becoming the land of the free." "Yes," said his friend, "and the continuance of the marriage rates shows that it is still the home of the brave."

The Question of Water for Your Country Home

In planning your country home nothing is quite so important as the question of water.

Formerly it was considered sufficient for the farm or country home to have a hand pump or windmill. But now the hand pump and windmill are as obsolete as the old unsanitary outhouse or chemical toilet.

DURO Water Systems

made in many sizes and styles, enable any home anywhere, to have running water under pressure, all over the house, just like city water service.

Duro systems can be used with deep wells, shallow wells, cisterns or springs. They may be driven from high line current, farm light plant or gasoline engine.

A Duro system is a sound investment—it lessens labor and promotes health and cleanliness. It replaces drudgery and despair with comfort and happiness. And it is also a permanent improvement that adds to the value of your property.

Have your architect or builder ask for an estimate. Specify Duro.
